- Alderman Rodriguez spoke in support of the ordinance. He asked how this ordinance would hold companies with a redevelopment agreement (“RDA”) liable.

- Alderman Rodriguez asked how often would have to report.
- Mr. Jeffries responded that it would be yearly.
- Alderman Rodriguez asked how those reports would be shared with the City Council.
- Mr. Jeffries responded that the ordinance requires DPD to forward the report as a whole to the Committee on Economic, Capital and Technology Development and to the alderman of the impacted ward.
- Chairman Villegas clarified to Alderman Rodriguez that the reports would be received annually, but that the committee was within its rights to call bad actors before the committee.
- Alderman Scott spoke in support of the ordinance. He asked which tax incentives were covered under the ordinance.
- Mr. Jeffries responded that this ordinance covered 6(b)s, all of the 7s, and 8s. He noted that Cook County does not allow for revocation of Class L and Class C tax incentives, but that DPD would look for an amendment to the ordinance should that change in the future.

- Mr. Mayekar confirmed that his office would provide a list.
- Alderman Osterman asked what the timetable was for the delivery of remaining $50 million in the Resiliency Fund.
- Mr. Mayekar responded that in order to make the dispersion equitable, his office was working on building up a pool of eligible applicants in underserved communities.
- Alderman Scott asked if businesses who had already received a grant and continued to struggle would be prioritized for further help.
- Mr. Mayekar responded that, in order to be equitable, businesses who had not previously received a grant or loan would be prioritized.
- Katy Leoni, Senior Project Manager for the Office of Economic and Neighborhood Development, added that businesses were not eligible for further grants from within the same fund, but they continued to be eligible for grants from other funds.
- Alderman Scott asked for a one-pager that could be disseminated to businesses so that they can be aware that being awarded one grant does not further disqualify them from other grants. He also asked for a list of businesses who had been rejected for any grants.
- Rosa Escareño, Commissioner of Business Affairs and Consumer Protection ("BACP"), responded that she would provide that through the chair. She also responded that BACP continues to communicate with businesses who did not receive grants and provide information on other grants available and about the possibility of a second round for each fund.
- Alderman Lopez asked if it could be considered equitable for an area that has 10 times as many businesses receive equal amounts of monies.
- Mr. Mayekar responded that the loans and grant program were targeted to businesses that did not have access to the federal money provided by the PPP and had more stable financial relationships and are underserved by major financial institutions.
- Alderman Lopez referred to the reports each alderman received and noted that the number of businesses that were awarded a grant did not vary greatly from ward to ward. He further noted that if minority businesses were truly being targeted, you would expect wards with a higher percentage of minority businesses to receive more grants.
- Mr. Mayekar responded that he was aware of that and that the second round of awards would work to fix that.
- Alderman Lopez asked if there was anything being done to address the financial instability, particularly in minority neighborhoods.
- Ms. Escareño responded that the City made note of the inadequacies during the last recession and had been working in neglected neighborhoods to find local processors for microloans.
- Jack Brofman, Deputy Comptroller, responded that the funds that were dispersed or about to be dispersed were mostly in low or moderate income community areas.

- Alderman Lopez asked if this was the case, why we were seeing similar numbers across the City. He also asked if it would be helpful if we start considering having bond underwriters and institutions doing business with the City to also do business in underserved communities.
- Ms. Escareño responded that BACP wanted to make sure they understood the needs of entrepreneurs and that they were able to bring the resources to every neighborhood.
- Mr. Brofman responded that he was not aware of there being specific criteria for municipal depositories, but that he believed it would be a good idea to emphasize the need for more involvement throughout the City.
- Alderman Vasquez asked if there were any opportunities for businesses that were open for less than a year.
- Mr. Mayekar responded that he would be willing to work with the alderman to develop or look for something at the federal level to address that issue.
- Ms. Leoni responded that businesses that were open for less than a year were eligible for the Together Now Fund.
- Alderwoman Dowell asked for a point of information about what made businesses eligible for the Together Now Fund if they were in business for less than a year.
- Ms. Leoni responded that the businesses had to show some amount of revenue prior to COVID-19 and have met all the other requirements.
- Alderman Sigcho-Lopez asked if there was a plan to help small businesses, particularly restaurants, in light of the restrictions on gatherings and occupancy in the coming winter.
- Mr. Mayekar responded that the most important lever would be federal support. Secondly, the City has launched a winter dining challenge to promote design concepts that would benefit the restaurant industry and outdoor dining. He also responded that the City could not make plans that run counter to state laws, as such, plans were focused around making help less dependent on TIF money and developing programs for all businesses, not just those in TIF Districts.
- Alderman Sigcho-Lopez asked if there were plans to alleviate some of the fees and red tape neighborhood businesses have to face.
- Mr. Mayekar responded that one of the efforts being pushed forth was establishing five neighborhood offices for BACP.
- Ms. Escareño added that BACP was evaluating requests for proposals for those regional centers.
- Chairman Villegas asked how much money has been committed in private dollars and how much do the private funders expect to make back via interest.
- Mr. Mayekar responded that he could not speak to private lending activity and the City does not have oversight over this activity.
- Chairman Villegas asked if a portion of the loans through the Catalyst Fund and the Together Now Fund could be converted into forgivable loans.
- Mr. Mayekar responded that the Together Now Fund was a grant program and money distributed need not be repaid. As to the Catalyst Fund, it is funded by the City's working capital and any losses would add to the City's budget deficit. Adding that the Fund is structured to have a very low interest rate, much lower than the markets.
- Chairman Villegas asked about the future of the Catalyst Fund given that a large portion of it was dedicated to the Together Now Fund.
- Mr. Mayekar responded that there were still some disbursements to be made into the Resiliency Fund and that there was still plenty to be allocated and promised future dialogue with the City Council.
- Chairman Villegas asked if the City was aware of how many businesses had folded since the programs were launched.

- Mr. Mayekar responded that the City new around 25% businesses were currently closed, but it was not sure how many would remain closed after the COVID-19 pandemic.
- Chairman Villegas commented on the importance of not only having these programs, but also delivering them in a timely manner.

All business being concluded, Chairman Villegas asked for a motion to adjourn.

Alderman Lopez moved to adjourn.
